BEAUTIFUL
LAKE COCHICHEWICK

Years ago a Famous Resort of the Historic Red Men.

There are few regions in New England which the wild legends and traditions of the fast-vanishing race of red men have not invested with a peculiar charm. The poetic legends of Whittier have made famous the White Hills of New Hampshire, and the lake region of that state as well as the several other localities, equally worthy, which are still unsung, and the legends which remain to remind us of aboriginal days are fast vanishing into forgetfulness.

Such a region is that in the immediate neighborhood of Lake Cochichewick, in North Andover, where, hundreds of years ago, the noble race of red men basked their graceful wigwags and lighted their council fires. There they watched the golden maize ripen in the fertile meadows under the influence of the September sun, and pursued the bounding deer through the dense forests. Lake Cochichewick was then, as now, one of the most beautiful sheets of water in all this region, and its waters were as clear and cool as a shower of pearls.

The same conditions exist now. No polluted streams flow into it, but it is fed by springs in the bottom of the lake, which make its waters absolutely pure, and always cold and clear. Its shores are covered with small, smooth pebbles, and upon adjacent hillides forests of oak and evergreen still remain.

At the lower end of the lake three large ice houses have been erected and filled with ice from this clear body of water. Six thousand tons have been housed here by EDWARD ADAMS, who is prepared to furnish ice of absolute purity to his customers. It is vastly different from the ordinary ice sold in New England, and it can be obtained by leaving your order at the store of VALPEY BROTHERS, Andover.

Strictly Pure Ice!

Citizens of Andover desiring a strictly pure article of ice should see that their supply comes from Pumps pond. As pure a sheet of water as there is in Massachusetts, surrounded by hill and wood. Fed entirely by springs, there is no chance for impurities, not even locomotive cinders. It is of as much historic interest as her larger sister in connection with the Red Men or the Black, and is not behind in sentimentality, and it is ahead in purity.

I secured two thousand tons of ice from its surface the past winter, and am prepared to furnish persons with it at reasonable rates in quantities to suit. Orders left with REA & ABBOTT will receive prompt attention.

The Board of Registrars meets next Wednesday night in the Selectmen's room.

A good opportunity to purchase second hand household furniture is offered at the auction to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Rev. J. V. Stratton's on High Street.

Weather permitting, the Nictus and Lawrence Canoe Club will play the last scheduled game in the Merrimack Valley Association series to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on the grounds of the former.
Both teams will work hard to win, as Nictus with this game will be sure of second place, while by losing, the two clubs will be tied.

The Republican Councillor Convention will be held at Lowell next Tuesday in Jackson Hall at 11 A.M.

The Democratic Caucus which was announced for Monday night was postponed till to-night (Friday) at 8 o'clock, on account of not having been properly advertised.

The sale of tickets for the course of lectures takes place in the Town Hall to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock.

for foreign missionary work.

The Town Hall has been engaged for next Wednesday night by the "Si Plunkard Co.," and seats are now on sale at J. H. Chandler's. The Philadelphia Telegram says:

The comic drama of "Si Plunkard" was presented at the National Theatre Monday evening by the accomplished Yankee comedian, and an exceptionally good company.
The audience was large and appreciative, and everybody found something to enjoy in the varied entertainment. The orchestra which travels with this company is a fine one, and the music they dispensed during the evening was excellent. As a whole, the company is the best that has visited here."

Personal.

John H. Flint and family have returned from their summer residence in East Wareham, to their home on Elm Street.

The Amory family of Boston are guests of Mrs. E. Buck at her residence on School St.

Mr. Arthur White left town Monday, for Denver, Colorado, where he goes to spend the winter, in search of a climate more beneficial to his health.

Higgins, members of Shawshen Council of the Home Circle of this town, attended the annual banquet of the Grand Council at Boston, Tuesday night.

Mrs. Geo. Kingman of Haverhill was a recent visitor at Mr. E. C. Upton's.

Mrs. Leverett Bradley and sons were in town this week.

William Donovan, son of Daniel Donovan, has gone to Villanova College, Philadelphia, to pursue his studies.

Mr. Ira Hill and family, of the "Hill" farm, are taking a carriage ride to their former home in Lymeboro, N. H.

Mr. Albert Hulme, who has for some time been employed by the Tyer Rubber Co., has begun a three year's course at the Harvard Dental School.

the employ of Hardy & Cole.

John Ritchie has resigned his position at Smith and Mannings.

John M. Cheever, who has been night-watchman on the Hill, will leave town for Oregon directly after the auction of his goods next week Saturday afternoon, Oct. 5.

The Electric Co. Entertains the Citizens of the Town.

"Your company is respectfully requested at Andover Electric station, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, at 8 o'clock," were the words on a neat little card, which was received by a large number of our citizens this week. In response to this invitation there was a large and representative gathering on that evening at this model station. The Ballardvale firemen came accompanied by the Independent Drum Corps and there were several persons from Lawrence, Lowell, and North Andover. The Andover Band was there and during the evening discoursed music, which was a very happy addition to the evening's pleasure. The engines, dynamos and everything connected with the station and its workings were closely inspected, and the members of the Electric Company and the employees showed every courtesy to all. But the best part of the entertainment was yet to come. On the knoll near the station an arc light was suspended, tables had been placed, and here everyone was invited to partake of steamed clams and lobsters served with green corn, boiled eggs, sweet potatoes and hot coffee. Mr. Geo. F.
Holt was the cook, and all will testify to the quality of this unexpected repast. Cigars were afterwards passed around and at an early hour all sought their homes. The occasion was a pleasant one in every respect and was heartily appreciated by those present, who will wish the Company all success. The verses below, taken from the "Book of Andover" will no doubt be found interesting reading in this connection:

XIV. CHAPTER OF SMITH AND HOLT.

1st. It came to pass in the later days, a dweller of Andover, one B. Frank Smith, prophesied there would be light in Andover; and there was light, even Electric Light; and the multitudes were amazed at the brightness thereof, and it spread throughout all the land. It shone from the highways and byways, from the land of Frye to the Vale of Ballard, even to the Elm House Temple.
And the land was filled with a great brightness, and great was the rejoicing.

2d. In the course of time it came to pass that young men and maidens were filled with fear and trembling, because of the light; for dark corners were no more. A terrible cry went throughout the land; there was weeping for many days.

3d. One old Patriarch, whose days were many in the land, by name George F. Holt, preached unto the young men and maidens, saying, Woe unto ye, ye roosters on stone walls and fences, and ye seekers after dark places; for I say unto you, great is your punishment; know ye this day darkness is dispelled in Andover, for there is a great light spread abroad in our land—Electric Light.

4th. If ye would make love to one another in dark places, get ye to some other land,— the land of Lawrence is dark and full of iniquity; there ye can abide in peace; and the blessing of Andover go with ye. And the young men and maidens waxed very wroth, and great was the sorrow in the land.

5th. Ye host of Andover, marvel not, for I have great things to say unto you. The light shall spread throughout our land with greater brightness, even to the Abbot synagogue and our National Banking tombs, where our great wealth is stored, and our great temple where the manuscripts, the scrolls, and archives, of our great land are sealed; even in the tents of the lowly dwellers of the land shall the light be seen. Men shall wax strong in the light; they shall be as just risen from out of darkness into the light.

6th. O ye benighted brothers in the far north, why will ye wander in darkness?
Come into the light and share our gladness and joy, for our land is a land of brightness, our gates are open unto ye. Gladly would we welcome ye into our fold and Electric Light. Let the light shine in the homes of the dwellers of your land, and make their hearts glad.

7th. Rejoice, my brethren, for the blessings we have brought unto you. We have filled the land with a joy that knows no gloom. Well may I say the land is flowing with milk and honey; for have not the waters of Haggett's risen? shall they not flow through your land in clear crystal streams that may refresh the weary pilgrim on his way? Therefore let there be rejoicing and feasting throughout the land, and a wonderful Clam Bake.

AULD LANG-SYNE.

Editorial Note.

With this issue of our paper, the publication of the Old Andover Records, which has been going on for the past year, is discontinued. While these records may have been of little or no interest to some of our readers (possibly the majority), we have reason to know that they have been heartily appreciated by many families in Andover—and as well by many others outside of Andover—who have thus been enabled to trace the exact lines of their descent from the early settlers of the town.

The subscriber, in retiring now from further connection with the TOWNSMAN, wishes especially to thank the many friends whose suggestions or communications have added interest or value to the auld lang-syne department. A few old newspapers and other material for local reminiscences are still in his possession, and will be returned to those who furnished them, on application. If he can render any further service to those who have become interested in these genealogical researches of Old Andover, he will gladly do so.

Moderators of Andover Town Meetings.

Mr. Town Clerk Putnam has handed us a list of all the Moderators for the past fifty years, with the number of times each one served. It will be remembered that up to the time of the division of the town, the meetings were held alternately in the North and South Parishes, the moderators being usually selected from the parish where the meeting was held; also, that in several cases, there were two or more meeting in the same year. The number of stars will show how large a proportion of our public men of the last half-century have gone over "to the majority":

Forty Years Ago.

A Boston merchant has just sent us an old letter written home by his brother when a student in Phillips Academy in 1847. It is sealed with a wafer, after the old style, and has a "5" stamped on it, showing that the "old folks at home" (a minister's family in New Hampshire) had to pay to get it. A few extracts will show how a poor boy, determined to get an education, got along forty years ago. He succeeded well and graduated from Dartmouth in 1854. The place where he worked, as many readers will recognize, was the Mansion House, then kept by Mr. Asa Lamson. In the 1847 catalogue we find in this boy's class such familiar names as (Rev.) Marcus Ames, John F. Cogswell of Andover, William W. Crapo of New Bedford, Prof. Edward P. Crowell of Essex, (President) Carroll Cutler of Windham, N. H., Joseph McKeen of Brunswick, Me., Richard S. Spofford of Newburyport, and Levi J. Woodbury of Bedford, N. H. In other classes were, Peter S., John and Joseph Byers, Geo. O. Shattuck, James G. Vose of Milton, Edward Buck, Oriand, Me., Geo. Coburn and Amos H. Johnson of Boston, Isaac O. Blunt, William H. Burt, Aaron Cummings of Albany, Me., J. Alvan Farley, William P. Foster, Joseph Kimball (of Plaistow, N. H.), Samuel Locke Lamson, and many other At over names which would be recognized.

ANDOVER, OCTOBER 6, 1847.

My dear father: I received your letter on Saturday. I was glad to hear you got home in safety from your journey to Vermont. I am much pleased with my new home here at Mr. Lamson's. I am more contented, and I enjoy myself better than I did in Commons. It has seemed like home to me ever since I came here. I have about the same amount of work to do as I do when at home, and I am treated as one of the family. The board is much better than it is in Commons. They set about as good a table as anywhere on the hill, that is, this part of Andover where the institutions are.

My work and study hours are something as follows: rise in the morning at about 5.30 o'clock, build two fires (probably more when it is colder), work round the barn, such as milk one cow, take care of the horses, and saw wood till 7.30 when I eat my breakfast, then if there is anything in particular to do, if a man has stopped here over night, he usually starts away about this time, I put his horse in, &c.; if not, I prepare for school and look over my lesson, if I have time, till 8.30, when I attend prayers in the Academy. My recitations commence at 9 o'clock, continue till 10.30, then go to my room and study till 12 o'clock, chore round till about 1 o'clock. Afternoon recitations, 1.30 to 3, study till 4.30, prayers at the Academy till 5, work till dark, supper. I study some in the evening and read some.

I joined a society this term called the "Philo Mathean" by the payment of 50 cents. I have as many books as I want from the Library belonging to this society. I have only one pair of woolen pants fit to wear. I shall have to wear thick pants all the time now, but I will try and make these do till I go home again. I hope you will let me attend school here as long as you can. The more I study the Languages, the more I wish to go ahead in them.

The Old South.

An old Andover resident communicates the following tradition as to the South meeting-house, at the time (about 1780) there was a discussion as to the location of a new edifice.

Mr. Nehemiah Abbot called at the Parsonage and made known to the minister, Rev. Jonathan French, the wishes of the people in what is now the West Parish to have the new meeting-house located on the other side of the Shawsheen. "Well," answered Parson French, "you on that side wish it built on that side, and those on this side wish it built on this side. As you cannot agree, you had better set it in the middle of the river." This answer so pleased Mr. Abbot that he told his neighbors, and all agreed to the present location.

"I once met a thoughtful scholar," said Bishop Whipple, "who told me he had read every book he could which assailed the religion of Jesus Christ, and he said he should have become an infidel but for three things: 'First, I am a man. I am going somewhere. To-night I am a day nearer the grave than I was last night. I have read all such books can tell me. They shed not one solitary ray of hope or light upon the darkness. They shall not take away the guide and leave me stone-blind. Second, I had a mother. I saw her go down into the dark valley where I am going, and she leaned on an unseen arm as calmly as a child goes to sleep on its mother's breast. I knew that was not a dream. Third, I have three motherless daughters. I would rather see them die than leave them in this sinful world, if you blot out from it all the teachings of the gospel.'"

News and Notes of the Week.

The estimated population of Boston in November next is 415,304.

Wilkie Collins, the well known novelist, died in England, Monday, at the age of 65 years.

There were eighteen inches of snow on Mount Washington this week, and the car tracks had to be shovelled out.

The mammoth publishing house of Bedford, Clark & Co. of Chicago, with branches in New York and San Francisco, has failed.

George Francis Train was arrested in Boston Tuesday on an old judgment for debt, and he elected to go to jail rather than settle.

A lot of Connecticut Postmasters are charged with violating the law by selling stamps on credit and making false entries of the sales.

Justice Field has presented Nagle, whom he considers saved his life by shooting Judge Terry, with a magnificent gold watch and chain appropriately engraved.

The residence of Dudley Palmer, near the Phillips Beach Station, Swamscott, was burglarized at an early hour Monday morning, and $1200 worth of property taken.

The 25th anniversary of the issuing of the Emancipation Proclamation was celebrated in Boston, Monday, with appropriate exercises of song, prayer and addresses.

There was a severe tornado at Pablo Beach, Jacksonville, Fla., Monday. The roof of a hotel was twisted off and a 13 year old boy, who was holding a horse, was killed.

The Balch stallion race at Beacon Park, Monday, attracted a large crowd. The Maine stallion, Nelson, won in three straight heats, the time being 2.18 1-2, 2.17 1-4, 2.18 3-4.

The scenes at Johnstown have been repeated in the province of Ki, Japan, where there has been a terrible flood, by which 15,000 people are said to have been killed, several towns wiped out and others partly demolished.

Governor Ames has written to New York that he cannot co-operate with Mayor Grant on the World's Fair question, but adds that should New York be the chosen place he has no doubt but that Massachusetts will do its part to make it a success.

The Vermont Railway Commissioners have reported on the recent fatal railway accident on the Central Vermont Railway, near Brooksville, and find that it was due to gross and inexcusable carelessness and forgetfulness on the part of Conductor Button and Engineer Chilson.

E. G. Hartwell, employed in the office of Hartwell & Richardson, Devonshire street, Boston, and living in Waltham, was drowned off Hull Sunday by the capsizing of a boat. Hartwell was accompanied, it is supposed, by Arthur Taft of Dedham. It was arranged that Hartwell and Taft should meet a Mr. Graves at Alerton Point, from which place they were to take the yacht Marjorie to City Point.

A drunken engineer caused a serious accident at Chicago, Tuesday. A passenger train was at a standstill, one coach projecting over the crossing. Into this coach, containing about 60 persons, plunged the freight train, travelling rapidly at right angles to the Rock Island tracks. The wreck of the passenger coach was instant and complete. Five persons were killed and six injured.

Brackett and Haile are the standard bearers for the Massachusetts Republicans in the coming State election. The convention, Wednesday, in Boston was a large one, 1428 out of 1431 delegates attending. Ex-Gov. Robinson was chairman, and made a splendid address. Speeches were also made by Hon. George F. Hoar and Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge. Only one ballot was taken for Governor, Brackett receiving 743 votes and Crapo 674. Brackett's nomination was made unanimous. Two ballots were taken for lieutenant governor with no choice, but the names of Walker and Johnson were withdrawn and Haile of Springfield nominated by acclamation. The rest of the State ticket is the same as is now in office.

There was a $45,000 fire at Buffalo Wednesday night.

Gen. Brown of Cincinnati is now considered the strongest candidate for the Pension Commissionership.

The Mexican Government, it is reported has made valuable land concessions to an American syndicate interested in a big colonization scheme.

The breaking of the running gear in a street car drawn by a steam motor caused the car to jump the track while ascending a sharp grade in West Concord, N. H., Friday afternoon. The car was filled principally with ladies and children, and was thrown on one side, piling the passengers in a confused heap inside. Three persons were seriously injured and the rest badly shaken up. The car was considerably shattered.

The Opera House at Hartford, Ct., was crowded to overflowing on Tuesday to witness the historical tableaux given in part as a testimonial to Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe. The tableaux illustrated national events from Columbus to date, and were designed especially to show the progress of woman. The author, Miss Cora Scott Pond of Boston, was manager. Mrs. Livermore was lecturer. Mrs. Isabelle Beecher Hooker personated Mrs. Stowe.

A terrible disaster occurred at Quebec on Thursday of last week, thousands of tons of rock and earth sliding from the Citadel Hill, near the King's Bastion, burying in its fall scores of houses and the inmates therein. It is not known how many were killed and injured, as bodies are being found every day in the debris. As many as fifty have already been taken out. Thousands have visited the scene of the accident, it was the highest point in Quebec and fell with a thunderous roar.

Several officials at the State Reformatory at Concord have been arrested charged with embezzlement from the Commonwealth. Various valuable materials, such as coats, vests, cotton cloth, thread, linen, and prisoners personal effects, have during the past two years, been sold as old rags, and the profits thereby gained have, it is claimed, enriched several of the prison's most trusted men. A storekeeper has also been charged with being an accessory. William Dunham and Fred P. Orcutt of the prison, and George G. Russell a storekeeper, are the ones already arrested, and investigation will probably lead to more arrests.

A serious accident happened Friday at Chattanooga which cast a gloom over the meeting of the Army of the Cumberland in session there. A heavily loaded car on the electric road was running up Mission Ridge, and when near the top of this historic battle-ground the electric current gave out. The brakes could not hold the car, and it ran back down the steep hill with frightful rapidity. The conductor shouted to the passengers, including several ladies, to leap for their lives. Many of them did so. One lady was killed, a man fell into a barbed wire fence and lost an eye, besides receiving other injuries. In all, ten people were injured, several of them seriously. Those who remained in the car were uninjured, as its speed was checked after being relieved of most of its load.

Lend a Hand fulfils its name in the helpfulness of its various papers and paragraphs to all societies and clubs—and individuals, as well—interested in practical philanthropy. The current number: two short editorials (Dr. Edward Everett Hale is the editor) on winter industries and winter hospitals are very suggestive. A State School of Citizenship, The Technical Education of Women, and Methods of Promoting Good Citizenship, are titles of other articles. Short lists of story-books for boys and for girls are given. The reports of Ten Times One clubs are published regularly in this periodical [J. Stillman Smith and Co., Boston; $2 a year.]

Pansy for September is, as usual, full of helpful, useful reading for young folks. It makes no show, and sounds no trumpet, but we do not know where children can get more pleasant and profitable reading for a whole year, for one dollar, than in this magazine. It counts for a good deal that Mrs. "Pansy" herself is the editor. [D. Lothrop & Co., Boston; $1 a year.]

EVERY HOUSEKEEPER SHOULD USE

Glen Mills Breadstuffs.

Among their specialties are

GOLDEN CORN MEAL,

made from the very best pure yellow corn, thoroughly cleansed, ground and bolted by a process peculiar to this mill. It distances all other bolted meals in the market in sweetness and flavor.

ENTIRE WHEAT FLOUR

is made from selected, choice, ripe wheat, the grain first having been thoroughly cleansed, scoured and brushed, the woody fibre discarded, the inner brand retained, and the whole reduced to a uniform fineness by a process peculiar to our own mills. Every effort of the mind or movement of the muscle involves the waste of nervous energy and vitality; we must build up our systems by those elements which will replace those wastes. Chemical analysis shows us that waste flour cannot do this, as the best part of the wheat is sacrificed for the sake of the color.

GLEN MILLS ENTIRE WHEAT FLOUR contains all the elements of the wheat, stored there by our Creator for our use.

Those preferring a coarse Graham should use the

Glen Mills True Wheat Meal

the best wheat meal in the market.

GLEN MILLS NEW PROCESS RYE MEAL,

is made from the best quality of White Rye, which before it comes from the mills is thoroughly cleansed from all impurities, so that nothing comes to the reducing mills but plump, sound rye, as clean as washing can make it. One five pound package of our rye meal will convince you of its merits.

WHITE CORN MEAL.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1889.

When the electric light poles were first placed, they were an eyesore to almost everyone, and occasioned a good deal of grumbling, but now that our people are enjoying the light they have almost ceased to notice them; they are willing to have so much that is not ornamental for the sake of the greater luxury. But are not the electric light poles and necessary telephone poles a sufficient amount of this style of ornamentation, without the addition of the abandoned poles of the New England Telephone Co., all over town? The roadway to Frye Village is almost barricaded on one side with old and new poles, and we wonder if no one has the authority to have the old ones removed; or must they stand grim and bare all winter?

There is a demand for more and better postoffice facilities in Andover and they have got to come. Many new comers to Andover are unable to obtain boxes, and there is a great lack of large boxes. Postmaster Goldsmith seems anxious to give our citizens good service, but there is a lack of room and evidently a lack of money, to enable him to conduct the office as efficiently as he wishes to, and as its patrons desire it should be conducted. It is rumored that a new location will have to be found for the office within the next year, their present quarters being needed for the necessary town business. Let the location be carefully selected and let there be plenty of room.

Mr. Truell's friends are urging his candidacy for councillor, on the plea that he has been a candidate before. While we are rather in favor of Mr. Truell for councillor, we cannot help thinking that if the number of times a man has sought office gives him a better claim to the office, Mr. Truell ought to be running for Governor instead of Councillor.

ANDOVER NEWS.

For other Andover News, see Pages 1 and 8.

The Free church congregation will give a reception to its pastor, Rev. F. A. Wilson, and wife in the vestry this evening. Mr. Wilson has just returned from a two weeks wedding trip, spent in Maine.

The Andover Council No. 65 R. A. meets to-night—business, initiation. A full attendance of the members is requested.

The Lawrence Co-operative Bank will open the fourth series of shares next Friday evening in the Brechin Block, Lawrence, all those who wish to take shares will have an opportunity of doing so. Interest for the present six months has been about 6 per cent.

A number of Andover men attended the great stallion race at Beacon Park, Monday.

The work of the Flower Mission, which has contributed flowers during the summer to the Tabernacle Mission in Boston, will be discontinued Oct. 1, this week being the last. The season has been a remarkably successful one, the contributions being very good.

W. R. Lyon a member of the Senior English class at Phillips Academy, was badly injured while playing foot ball Wednesday afternoon. His cheek bone was broken, and the socket of the eye displaced.

Edward Craig, a carpenter employed by Geo. S. Cole at Marland Mills, was hit on the top of his head by a nine-pound hammer which fell from a staging, Tuesday. A severe scalp wound about three and a half inches long was the result. He was removed to his home in Lawrence, after the wound had been sewed up, several stitches being required.

J. M. Bradley, while in Lawrence Wednesday night, left his horse, which was attached to his road wagon, tied to a post in the street. When he came to get him, he found that his team had disappeared. He notified the police and in company with an officer obtained another team and started in pursuit, it being found that a team answering the description of the one lost was on the road to Andover. Whoever was enjoying the use of the team, however, had a good start and eluded his followers, so that they gave it up. It was a little after 11 o'clock, when some Andover people saw a team driven by a drunken man in the centre of town and go up over the Hill. Previous to this the team went into the yard of Pray's stable and as it afterwards proved was Mr. Bradley's team. Officers Mears and Wilkie continued searching and found the team near the Holt District school-house early in the morning, but no trace of the thief.

The Andover National Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent payable October 1st. The bank has also assumed and paid the tax assessed upon the shareholders of one $2-100 per share in addition to the above.

We understand that there are some women in town, who contemplate voting for school committee at the March town meeting, and for their information we quote from the public statutes the following section:

"Every woman who is a Citizen of this Commonwealth, of twenty-one years of age and upwards (except paupers, persons under guardianship, and persons excluded by Article Twenty of the Amendments to the Constitution [inability to read and write]), who has resided within the State one year, and within the city and town in which she claims a right to vote, six months next preceding any election of School Committees, and who has paid by herself, her parent, guardian, or trustee, a state, county, city, or town tax assessed upon her or her trustee in this State within two years next preceding such election, shall have a right to vote in all such elections for Members of School Committees."

The Poll tax is a State and County tax, and the city or town tax is assessed on property. The Woman's poll tax is 50 cents, and in order to vote next March a woman who does not pay a property tax, must be assessed a poll tax on or before October 1, next.

Also that all persons intending to vote at the next November and March elections who, being otherwise qualified therefor, have not been assessed a poll-tax since the year 1887, must be assessed such tax on or before the First day of October next.

Applications for assessment may be made to the Assessors at any time prior to October First.

The Board will be in session at the Town House from 7.30 to 10, in the afternoon of October 1st, for the purpose of receiving and acting on applications for assessment of taxes.

Mrs. E. C. Kelley will open her millinery parlor at the Elm House, Oct. 1, and will have all the new designs for fall wear.

The work at the reservoir for the water works, progresses well. Mr. Jule expects to have all the excavating completed this week.

The present and past members of the Andover Band presented Mr. Arthur W. White with a purse of money, previous to his departure West this week.

Quarterly Meeting Y.P.S.C.E.

The quarterly meeting of the Andover Y.P.S.C.E. Union was held last evening at the Free church, and considering the bad weather there was a good attendance, President J. Newton Cole being in the chair.

After singing and reading of scripture, prayer was offered by Rev. J. J. Blair, which was followed by selections by a quartette composed of J. W. Bell, Miss Clara Bell, Miss Maggie Lindsay and Wm. Suott. Rev. Mr. Wilson of the Free church then made a few opening remarks of welcome, in course of which he said, we welcome you for your youth, progressiveness, sociability, co-operation, and your enthusiasm, all of which are contained in the letters Y.P.S.C.E. After the report of the secretary, Mrs. H. F. Wilson, the first of the four papers on Christian endeavor work was read by Miss Sarah Foster of the South church, the Social Committee being her subject. She brought out several ideas, among them, the need of Christian forbearance, in honor preferring one another for a motto; perfect Christian harmony; consulting the pastor in making plans; the society should not expect too much of the committee, but every member should be interested and help them; more handshaking at the different meetings, in the street or anywhere members come together.

How can we promote the welfare of our Union, and make it more helpful, was the subject of a second paper read by John E. Holt of West Parish. For earnest Christian life in a Union, we must have it in the several societies, in our daily life; go to general meetings prepared to take part, too many save their comments till after the meeting; have brief reports at the union meetings from the secretary of each society in regard to its progress; as a Union we should be ready to take part in any good undertaking; members of each society should visit the others occasionally.

J. W. Bell of the Free church then read an article on "Our Associate Members." In the four societies in town there are 232 active and 48 associate members. We can help our associate members to become active by our own example and by personal organized Christian work. Acquaint yourselves with the various committees, so as know when asked who is chairman of any committee; go to the meetings prepared to take part intelligently. He also gave other helpful hints for the associate members.

The last paper was read by Harry Appleton of Ballardvale on "How can we help our pastor." He noted various ways in which this can be done by enthusiastic societies, by active membership; by all being members of the church; by harmonious societies, and in several ways which showed a careful preparation of his paper.

After these exercises an adjournment was made to the vestry where a half-hour of sociability was spent which was much enjoyed by all. The next one will be the annual one in December at the South church.

Lecture Course.

The People's Course this year should be more interesting than ever, as it is without doubt the best which has yet been offered to the public. To any, who are at all acquainted with lecturers and entertainments, a glance at the list published last week, will show that only first class talent will be used. At least five of the attractions are such, that in almost every place a price of fifty cents is charged to hear them. These are Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Frank Beard, The Bernhard Listeman Club, Col. L. F. Copeland, and Edward Baxter Perry, the blind pianist. The other lecturers, Mr. Dickerman, Rev. Smith Baker, and Rev. H. H. Leavitt are all well known and will be sure to give lectures worthy of the rest of the course.

The centre and right side of Hall will be reserved, the price of tickets being 75 cents and $1.00, according to location. The left side of the Hall and the gallery will be open to the purchasers of 50 cent tickets, as heretofore. Tickets will be sold in the Upper Town Hall, Saturday evening, Sept. 28 at 7 o'clock. Doors will be open early, that there may be no crowding for position. No person will be allowed to purchase more than three reserved seat tickets, unless more be required for his family, in which case the limit will be five. Single admission tickets, 25 cents.

Obituary.

Thomas Bushfield Barnett, son of Mrs. William Barnett, died at his home on High Street last Saturday at the age of 32 years. Deceased was born in this town and was a tinsmith by trade, having been in the employ of the late Wm. Barnett and M. T. Walsh, and recently having worked in Lowell. He had been sick about two months with heart disease. Funeral services were held at his late home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Frederic Palmer officiating, and the remains were buried in the family lot in Christ church yard. He left a wife and one child, who, together with Mrs. Barnett and family, have the heartfelt sympathy of the community in their affliction.

Miss Annie P. Jenkins, a sister of Mrs. Timothy Holt of this town died in St. Louis, Sept. 10, at the residence of Chas. S. Freeborn. The body was taken to Mt. Vernon, N. H., for interment, where she formerly lived. A number of persons were acquainted with her, and they will regret to learn of her death.

Woman Suffrage Club.

The members of the Andover Woman Suffrage Club held a pleasant parlor meeting at the house of its president, Dr. Sanborn, last Friday evening. Rev. E. C. Abbott of Lawrence was present and gave an interesting and earnest talk, of twenty minutes, on the present attitude of the press, the church, the social and political world towards this important movement, showing that public sentiment had within the past few years favorably changed in regard to the right and equality of women as moral beings and subjects of civil law and government; and that this change was full of encouragement and prophetic of final success. He also presented many strong arguments for his faith in the righteousness and reasonableness of this reform, among which was, first, its justice. Strict, honest justice, he said, demanded that a woman who paid taxes and was subject to law, should have a voice and a vote respecting what use should be made of these taxes, and what kind of law should control her conduct.

2. That the women of our State stand in the same relation to its government that our fathers occupied towards Great Britain previous to their revolution, who were taxed without the right of representation. And if a tax of that kind was unjust and oppressive to our fathers, why is it not to-day equally unjust and tyrannical to woman on the same ground.

3. That the low plane on which the politics of our country was at present conducted was shameful and degrading, and needed the keener instinct of right and the higher moral sense and purpose of woman to elevate and purify it.

4. That woman has the same interest in the right settlement of all questions that concern the moral, social, or temporal welfare of the people and the glory of the nation that man has, and to deprive her of the use of her influence and the expression of her convictions where they will be most potent and efficient, is neither fair, courteous, nor just on the part of the usurping male sex.

The speaker also answered certain objections that are commonly urged against woman suffrage, and showed that they had their origin in prejudice and ignorance rather than in facts. The testimony that comes from states and localities where the right of suffrage has been conferred upon woman, completely refutes the bugbear predictions of evil and disaster in which so many indulge on this question.

A general discussion of the subject followed the speaker's remarks, by others present. The Club holds its next meeting at the same place on the third Friday evening of October.

West Parish.

The Juvenile Missionary Society will meet Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the Parsonage.

A meeting of the Andover Association of Ministers was held Tuesday in Bailey's Grove, Haggetts Pond. There was a good attendance, the brethren being invited to bring their wives and several availing themselves of the invitation. Besides business, the order of exercises included a paper on "The aims and needs of Bangor Seminary," by Rev. Mr. Bowker, formerly of Ballardvale; a paper on "Methods of Mission work in Japan" by Rev. H. H. Leavitt of North Andover and general discussions. Rev. Clark Carter, city missionary of Lawrence, presided. At noon there was a basket collation which was much enjoyed as were all the exercises of the day.

Phillips 13, Niotus 1.

The base ball game Saturday afternoon on the Niotus grounds, between the Phillips Academy team and Niotus was a little one-sided, but it was watched eagerly by the spectators and especially by the Phillips boys, who formed a large part of the audience and who were anxious to see how the new material would show up. Phillips scored two runs in the first inning, and at the end of nine innings thirteen had crossed the plate, while Niotus only scored once, their inability to hit Dalzell and their opponents strong playing being the reason. Every position on the Phillips nine was well cared for, with the exception of first base, which was a little weak. Churchill did not pitch his usual game, although he was not hit safely but nine times. The result of course was a foregone conclusion, but the score would have been closer, if Niotus had played the game it is capable of.

Hardy & Cole have begun work on the building for the pumping station at Haggetts Pond.

The small building in the rear of the stable at the Peter Smith homestead has been moved by G. H. Wilson of Lawrence, to make room for a larger addition and alterations to be made on the present stable by Hardy & Cole.

BALLARDVALE

Miss Jessie E. MacDonald of Boston, who will be remembered as a former teacher in the grammar school here, was in town visiting Mrs. H. F. Wilson, last week.

Dr. Shattuck and family are at Quechee, Vermont, for a vacation.

M. E. Clemons paid a flying visit home on Sunday.

Mrs. Joseph Russell and children are in Maine for a short visit.

Mr. William Harris who has spent the summer on a Colorado ranch, returned home last week. He brought with him 20 horses fresh from the plains, which he has at the Haley farm. It is a fine sight to see them together in the pasture.

The train that arrives here, at 5.40 P.M., broke apart just before drawing into the depot Thursday night. The automatic brakes of course were set immediately, causing excitement among the passengers, who all left the train.

The Methodist Society held an apron and necktie party in Bradlee Hall, last evening.

In the death of Mr. Robert Stott which occurred early last Monday morning, Ballardvale loses its oldest inhabitant with possibly one exception. He died very suddenly. Before retiring the night before he had been in good spirits, and in fact his health had been better lately than for some time. He arose at the usual hour Monday, and started for the barn but was forced to return to the house where he expressed his distress, and expired without hardly a word. He was a native of England, but had lived here for 45 years. For many years he was an overseer in the woolen mills, but for about 30 years has carried on the farm where he lived. He was known to everyone, and his family has received many expressions of sympathy. The funeral was held Wednesday from his late home, Rev. Mr. Butler and Rev. Mr. Small officiating. Burial at Spring Grove. He leaves one son, Mr. Thomas Stott.

Miss Fannie S. White is visiting in Salem for a few days.

The brick work of the new school house is up to the eaves, and at this height it is the most imposing building in the place. It will be an ornament to the village, and a credit to the town. A splendid view can be had from the second story. The site is now admitted to be the best that could have been chosen.

Mrs. F. G. Haynes has gone to attend her mother. Mrs. Fletcher, who was thrown from a carriage a few days since.

It is foolish to suppose that the Light Committee can place the limited number of lights at their disposal so as to suit every one at the start off, and the disaffected ones in the outlying districts like Chester Street and Lowell Junction should move over into town until such time as the light can be brought to them. These will come soon, though. In several instances it was thought that the arc lights would "reach" farther—Central Street for instance. The committee thought that the two arc lights would give ample light here but trees etc. cut it off so as to spoil their calculations. However, all will have light enough in a year or two.

NORTH ANDOVER.

Mrs. Louis Weil returned home Wednesday from a few weeks' visit to friends in Yorktown, N. J.

Mrs. Daniel W. Sutcliffe and two daughters returned Wednesday from a few weeks' visit to friends in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Sanborn attended the funeral of his uncle, in Candia, N. H., on Tuesday, who died suddenly, Friday, of neuralgia of the heart.

The marriage of Rev. A. H. Ames of Nashua, N. H., to Miss Blanche, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Poor, of this town, occurs in the Congregational Church, Wednesday, October 9th.

A missionary meeting will be held at the Methodist Church, next Tuesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, at which time Rev. W. H. Meredith of Lynn, will discourse upon the subject: "The Results of Missionary Effort."

Mrs. Geo. Walker tendered a delightful reception to the members of her Sabbath School class at the rectory last evening; the early evening was diverted by means of various parlor games and merry conversation. Later, a pretty collation was served in the dining room. The occasion was a joyful one to the pupils and was highly appreciated, if the smiling faces were any criterion.

Cochichewick Lodge, F. A. M., has received an invitation to make a fraternal visit to Merrimack Lodge, Haverhill, next Wednesday evening, that being the occasion of the official visitation of D. D. G. M., Dr. C. P. Morrill.

Messrs. William J. Halliday, Jr., Thomas P. Wills, and Frank W. Frisbee, attended the State Convention at Boston, Wednesday, and behaved as became good Republicans.

Mr. George G. Davis and family expect to remove to Boston about the middle of October, to remain during the winter.

Mr. James W. Leitch stopped a pair of runaway horses attached to Adams' ice cart one day this week. The animals started on Pleasant Street, and in turning the corner of Elm Street, ran into a hitching post. Fortunately, their flight was checked at the right time, for had they been allowed to run down the "shop hill" with the heavily loaded team serious damage would have undoubtedly resulted.

Mr. George L. Harris was re-elected Treasurer of the Committee of the Essex County Odd Fellows, at the meeting in Lynn, Tuesday.

The Bradstreet Colony of Pilgrim Fathers is rapidly increasing in membership. Three new members were admitted at the last meeting, and eight have applied for admission at the meeting next Tuesday evening.

At the 69th annual exhibition and fair of the Essex Agricultural Society held in Beverly Tuesday and Wednesday, Hon. Wm. A. Russell received a premium for his excellent head of Holstein Fresians; Mr. B. H. Farnham secured the premium for working steers, and Mr. J. C. Poor took first premium for fat cattle, two of his six-year-old Holsteins tipping the scales at 3000 pounds.

Capt. Reeves and Lieuts. Weil and Warren have received invitations to attend the reception tendered this evening by the officers of the Eighth regiment to Lieut. W. S. Hussey of Salem, inspector of rifle practice.

Miss Harriet Rice, of the Centre grammar school, is to take lessons in Prang's method of drawing for the purpose of instructing the teachers, which was to have been done by Miss Bessie M. Shepherd.

At a special meeting of the [Loyal Hearts of Oak Lodge No. 6264 I.O.O.F.M.U., of Lawrence the following resolutions were recently drawn up and adopted;

WHEREAS, death has visited our Lodge, and our respected Brother Joseph Rhodes is thereby removed from our midst, therefore be it

Resolved, that it is only a just tribute to the departed to say that we regret his removal from us, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard

Resolved, that while we mourn his loss sincerely, we trust he has gained the better country, and we tender the widow and family of our deceased brother, our heartfelt sympathy in this their great loss.

Resolved, that our dispensation be draped in mourning for at least thirty days, these resolutions be entered in our Lodge records, and a copy be sent to the Lawrence Daily Eagle for publication, and an engrossed copy be sent to the family of our departed brother.

GEORGE LAWTON, N. G.,
CHARLES HENRY PLATT, V. G.,
FREDERICK CUMMINGS, Sec.

A copy of the resolutions executed by Prof. Cannon and neatly framed was presented to the family Wednesday morning by Brother Thomas Lancaster.

The lecture, "The Great Cathedrals of Europe," at the M. E. church, Tuesday evening, merited a much larger audience. The cathedrals of England, France, Germany, Spain, and Italy were visited inside and outside, by the people present, with Rev. Dr. Mansfield as cicerone. Although led from the ground floor, in many of the cathedrals far up into the belfry, yet none were in the least fatigued at the end of their trip. So clear and distinct were the views, that it seemed almost as if one were looking, in reality, at the massive buildings themselves.

Adjutant General Dalton in General orders No. 10 appoints Thursday, October 3 as the day for the Fall parade and drill of the Second Brigade at Lynn, with the exception of the Second Corps of Cadets and Co. The board of engineers meets at the Eben Sutton engine-house, Tuesday evening, Oct. 3.

Several new volumes were received at the Public Library, Saturday.

Mrs. Abbie M. (Rumery) wife of Mr. Joel Sibley, died at her home, Thursday morning last week, about five o'clock, of paralysis. Although feeble health had for a considerable period incapacitated her from active labor, death came only as a relief from pain and suffering that for the last few weeks had been very severe. Mrs. Sibley was born in Effingham, N. H., in 1823, where she passed her youthful days. With the exception of a few years residence in Worcester and in Manchester, N. H., the greater portion of her married life has been spent in town and her native place. A residence of about 20 years here has endeared her to some, as a true and kindly neighbor, and to others, as a faithful friend.

The funeral services were held at her late home on Maple Avenue, Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Elias Hodge of the Methodist church, where the deceased formerly attended. The remains were taken Monday morning to Effingham, for interment. Among the floral tributes was a handsome pillow from her sisters, a large wreath from her relatives, and a profusion of cut flowers from many friends. A husband, two sisters, Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Wedgewood of Dover, N. H., a brother, (Mr. Morris Rumery of Glenhope, Penn.), survive her.

Mrs. A. P. Cheney was the guest of Rev. Mr. White of Cambridgeport, for a short time last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stearns, and son of West Medford, and Misses Alice, Jennie and Gertrude Woods of Newburyport, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson, for a few days last week.

Mr. Chas. Morton has a cottage which is to contain six rooms, under process of construction on his lot near Sargent's stable. Mr. Henry Keniston is doing the mason work, and Mr. James Daw will erect the building.

At the meeting of the Y.P.M.L. and S. Society Friday evening, the following were elected officers: President, F. W. Frisbee; vice-president, Herbert G. Johnson; secretary, Della Marston; treasurer, Andrew McLean. Executive committee, Messrs. Herbert Johnson (ex-officio), Fred. S. Smith, Misses Helen E. Roache, Mabel Morrill, Annie Saunders.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford C. and Master Ernest L. Smith, returned home Saturday from Effingham Falls, N. H.

The Aetnas of town and the Shamrocks of Lawrence opposed each other in a game of ball on the Lawrence common, Saturday afternoon. Dineen, pitcher for the South Ends and M. Manchester were the battery for the Aetnas, the latter capturing the game. Score, 9-20. Umpire, McCarty. The North Andover boys were opened upon, as was customary in days gone by, with a fusillade of missiles.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society met Wednesday with Mrs. James Roache, Pleasant Street.

At Saint Paul's church, Tuesday afternoon the Eastern Convocation of the Diocese of Massachusetts opened very auspiciously, and success has marked every feature of the work that has been under the consideration of the body. The church was decorated becomingly with flowers, and the services conducted under the direction of Rev. Edward Abbott of Cambridge, Vice Dean, were excellent. About thirty clergymen were present during the services, and were richly entertained at dinner Wednesday, at the rectory by Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Walker.

The order of exercises was carried out substantially as given in the programme of last week. Rev. Geo. Walker conducted the service of Holy Communion at 7.30 o'clock, Wednesday morning and assisted in other services. The evening services were well attended by the people of the parish. The committee appointed to present suitable resolutions on the death of the late Dean, Rev. Z. B. Gray, D.D., were Rev. J. H. Van Buren and Rev. J. W. Sater of Winchester. Rev. Mr. Lawrence, formerly rector of Grace church, Lawrence, has succeeded the late Dean Z. B. Gray, and is now Dean of the Theological College of Cambridge.

The above convocation includes Essex and Middlesex Counties, and such clergymen of Suffolk County as may choose to attend.

The next assembly of the Convocation will be held at Christ church Waltham, when Rev. Mr. Fales will celebrate the 40th anniversary of his incumbency as rector of the church at that place.

Charles, son of Mr. Geo. Wilton, died at his home Thursday morning after a few days' illness of diphtheria, aged 11 years. He was a member of St. Paul's Sabbath School and well liked by his mates. Funeral services will be held at the home this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. George Walker officiating.

Complaints having been made to Chief of Police Rextrow, by residents of the Kimball district, that the "force" were not attending to duty concerning illegal liquor traffic in that section of the town, and learning that one Joseph C. Ward, who resides in the vicinity of Ingalls' Crossing, was supposed to be dispensing beverages unlawfully, a warrant was procured, and about 6 o'clock Sunday evening, in company with officer Crowther, they started to search Ward's house. During the search at the house, only one bottle of lager and a portion of another were found in a cupboard. Ward, who is blind, came in collision with Chief Rextrow, and seized him by the lapels of the coat and attempted violence, but was quietly shaken off, but for the remainder of the visit the couple hindered the officers and blocked their efforts in every possible way. Nothing more was found, and as the evidence was not considered sufficient to make a case of illegal selling, the man was summoned into court for hindering an officer in discharge of his duties. The case comes before Justice Poor at Andover, Saturday.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Thomas E. Mayberry to the Andover Savings Bank, dated May nineteenth A.D. 1870, recorded with Northern District of Essex Deeds, Book 4, Page 202, which mortgage was duly assigned by the said Andover Savings Bank by its deed of assignment dated August 19th, A.D. 1871, to Adelaide I. Mayberry, and again assigned by said Adelaide I. Mayberry to the said Andover Savings Bank, by her deed of assignment dated January 30th, A.D. 1874, will be sold at public auction for breach of the conditions contained in said mortgage deed, on the premises hereinafter described, on TUESDAY, the 15th day of OCTOBER, 1889, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, a certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate on the southeasterly side of Summer Street, in said Andover, bounded as follows:

Beginning at the northwesterly corner thereof at the corner of the fence by said street and land lately owned by Horace Bodwell; thence by said street south 86° east, six rods and twenty links to a stake by the wall; thence by land of Nathaniel Whittier south 24° west twelve rods and ten links to a stake by the fence and land of Enoch Abbott; thence by said Abbott's land as the fence stands north 32° west eleven rods and twenty links to the corner of the fence and land lately of said Horace Bodwell; thence by the land last named as the fence stands north 36° east, seven rods and eight links to the corner first named.

Comprising seventy-five and a half square rods of land be there more or less, within said bounds, and being the same premises conveyed to Thomas E. Mayberry by deed of Nathaniel Whittier, dated August 16, 1869, recorded with Essex Deeds, Book 779, Leaf 286.

The Middle Passage.

BY REV. G. H. GUTTERSON.

In many respects the Suez Canal is like the famous "middle passage," without its attendant horrors. With the Gulf of Suez as its southern approach the canal is like a gateway between two hemispheres. The traveller sailing southward is soothed by tropic breezes, the southern cross flashes upon him from the midnight sky, mysterious continents and patient, slow-moving peoples invite his attention. He is in the luxurious, dreamy Orient. The northward voyager sails over storm-swept seas, well-developed civilizations and energetic, conquering races stir his ambition; in the north land Christianity has wrought mightily upon the hearts and consciences of men; the vast hermit nations of the south are just awaking to a knowledge of Christ and his kingdom!

We are sailing in imagination toward the southern entrance to the canal, through the eleven hundred miles of the Red sea; the spicy breezes off Ceylon and the calm waters of the Arabian sea, are far behind; we have bid farewell to Aden with its half-naked Somali boatmen and their bags of fragrant mocha, its massive fortifications and immense reservoirs cut into the solid rock. Navigation is dangerous—our gray-haired captain never appears at table! Suakim is far away to the left and we scan the horizon for English war ships. It grows cooler as we enter the Gulf of Suez, and one can no longer throw a mattress on the upper deck and sleep the live-long night hearing now and then the soft rush of the sea and the tread of changing watches.

It is afternoon as the gulf grows narrow. An English naval officer says that Sinai can be seen and we catch a glimpse of it, with the glass, beyond the rocky table lands of the Arabian coast, while the setting sun paints with gorgeous coloring the masses of cloud piled above the African hills. Early the next morning we pass the traditional place where the Israelites crossed, the Arabian end of the crossing is marked by graceful palms and by wells named after their illustrious leader. But the canal is before us, and we drop anchor and wait for a pilot. Meanwhile the electric apparatus to be used at night in the canal is put aboard. Over yonder lies a Portuguese man of war, and the swift mail steamer, bound for Bombay, passes us on the port bow warning us by her salt covered smoke-stacks of sterner seas ahead.

All are on deck as we enter the great ditch, some signaling to friends upon the mail boat, and two others looking for a hotel in Suez where they spent a day ten years before. The canal is a triumph of skill and energy, and appears to be well managed, it is eighty-seven miles long, and the passage requires a day (24 hours), five miles an hour being the maximum speed. The block system regulates the service, there being well kept signal stations at regular intervals connected with each other and the central office by wire; if two steamers are approaching a station from opposite directions, although not within sight of each other, one is warned by signals to tie up to the mooring posts set in the bank near the station and there lie to until the ship having the right of way has passed, for although the width allows of passing while in motion there is great danger of collision or of grounding.

The channel through the canal is marked on each side by iron buoys into which is compressed enough illuminating gas to last three months, burning night and day in colored globes placed on the upper point of the buoy, thus a double line of lights stretches through the canal.

Our day in the canal was interesting—there are changing scenes and (in the summer) dissolving views! The neat signal station with the leisurely French attendants, the camels on shore, the unkempt Egyptian men, and the women (bearing no striking resemblance to Cleopatra!), children—heirs of the Shepherd kings—chasing a goat along the bank, and calling for bucksheesh and biscuit; toward nightfall, sundry jackals seeking supper; now a huge steam dredger which never ceases to dredge, here a row boat with a solitary sportsman, there a native vessel with a sail of many colors, loaded with stone, disputes our passage, we fear a collision, but the native boatmen, dignified as Pharaoh, lean serenely upon his tiller, knowing that we must slow up!

One is amused also at the disgust of his fellow passengers at being hindered in our slow progress by various cargo steamers, colliers, etc., which they stigmatize as "ditchers"; the agent of the electric light company turns out to be a Frenchman, very polite and very vehement in his assertions that France can never be content until she has won back Alsace and Lorraine.

Late in the afternoon we reach the "bitter lakes," and a weird sunset over the barren wastes of the Isthmus closes a strange day. In preparation for the night a huge box, big enough to contain a light of four thousand candle power and a man to regulate it, has been slung over the bows, and we all go forward to see the dynamo started. Another light equal to twenty-five hundred candles is drawn to the masthead; when we meet a steamer, the bow light is shut off and the other turned on. All passenger steamers now use these lights and canal traffic never ceases. It is one of the phenomena of the Suez canal that the nights are cold. Ulsters and heavy wraps were brought out; we lingered long on deck to watch the passing of a great steamship of the "Orient Line," crowded with English and Scotch, bound for Melbourne, driven abroad by that restless Saxon energy which is conquering distant continents for commerce and for Christ.

Under the brilliant electric light the sandy desert on either side appears like driven snow as we sail on through the night past Ismaelia, named for the Viceroy, and where he has a palace. The fresh water canal enters here, and from this place one can go by rail to Central Egypt. Fresh water is supplied to the canal men throughout its length by iron pipes laid along the bank, revetements of stone are also being laid to prevent the filling up of the canal.

We reached Port Said the next morning after leaving Suez; here are 16,560 people of sorts; it is said that Constantinople is made up of the refuse of creation, and Port Said of the refuse of Constantinople! A fellow passenger who went ashore, though not with me, lost 16 shillings in as many minutes and saw unutterable things!

In company with friends I visited the town. We searched the markets for fruit but found none; we bought olive wood articles and a fez. The people in the market place knew me for an American, called me "Ferguson" and tried to cheat me, at all of which I smiled, but when they invited me in a cordial manner to take a hand at roulette I bade them a cheerful adieu!

The coal is in and the anchor weighed—it has cost our ship £1700 for canal tolls and £10 more for use of the electric light—a rather expensive day's sailing! The tropics are behind us. We turn westward toward Malta and the Straits of Gibraltar. The blue Mediterranean is discolored far and wide by the yellow waters of the Nile. Every throb of the engine is bearing us farther from the dear home in India toward the Englands, Old and New, and into that mental and spiritual quickening which we need.

SELECTIONS.

A Plymouth Pilgrimage.

Under this title Mrs. Abby Morton Diaz contributes to the September number of the New England Magazine, a delightful paper of reminiscences of our forefathers' town. Some of them were gained from an "ancient unknown who frequents the graveyard paths," and from them we give a sample below:

"I come up here to think over my thoughts and to look off on the salt water. All my family have passed on, and I have no new ties to join me in with this new generation. You may smile, but I seem to myself to be shed off and left all by myself, and I mostly take my cane,—for that seems companionable-like, I've known it so long,—and go strolling about among the old landmarks,—what are left of them,—and I live over the days of my youth; and somehow the times that I did live in, and take part in, and a good strong part, too, seem more like reality to me than these I've no part in. There's a kind of dulness to these times. Everything is right to your hand. Seems there's nothing doing in these times."

"But, my friend, you must allow there's something doing in the way of pleasuring."

"Yes—yes: I've looked in at their dancing. Just a kind of standing up to rest and a shoving the feet along. No Nancy Dillard singing, 'Now-a is the set part, set part, set part; Now-a is the turn part, turn part, turn,' and 'Dance up to Bushy Cobbin Barnes,' 'Dance up to the gal with the blue short apron.' No stepping out the tune, and the most they try to do is to keep out of one another's way. You'd have been pleased to see the times we used to have up at Cornish's Tavern; the Thanksgiving parties and Forefathers' parties! That was live fun! But everything is duller nowadays. Even in the schools 'tis drone, drone, drone. You don't see the rulers flying. And the meeting-houses are dull; no daylight let in; no rousing kind of sermons that used to keep anybody awake day and night. And the pulpit, and the ministers, too, are right down among the people."

"What you said, my friend, in regard to reality is in the line of my own thought. Life must have had a sterner reality and brought deeper lessons when daily needs demanded immediate effort."

"Stranger, you speak truth. What they got to eat had to be clutched right out of the ground or out of the water, and it was so up in our neighborhood even within my own remembrance. Whoever wanted clothes, why, there was your flax and your flock of sheep, and you could pull and shear and card and spin and weave, or do with fewer clothes. When you wanted bread, there was your ground, and you could plant and hoe and reap, or starve. When it came to sweetenin', why, they did have to buy their sweetenin'; but if you wanted meat you had to raise it, and do your own killing, or else hire it done. For fish there was the catching, and for clams there was the digging, and for eels there was the bobbing. In our family, father made scythe-handles and other tool-handles. Mother she carded and spun and wove and made up cloth, and the children made up wooden buttons and lead inkstands and run over the bent-up pewter spoons in a mould. Grandmother used the same pins to pin her clothes together for years. The shoemaker went his rounds from house to house, making up shoes for winter wear. All the boys and girls in our neighborhood, and a good many men, went barefooted in the summer; rain or shine, they had to put God's leather to God's weather. More for women to do than there is now? Well—more, and less. Time was used up then, and 'tis used up now. Then it was spinning and weaving; now 'tis piano-playing and going to picnics. They would have thought very poorly of carrying their victuals out doors and spreading them out on the ground. It takes more time to make a gown now than it took then to make the cloth and the gown. Half a day did very well for making one, and the regular price was twenty-five cents a day, work till eight o'clock. My sister learned the mantua-maker's trade. In one family, the best off in this town, the woman was close as the bark of a tree. She used to hire Prudy for half a day, and thread up a whole pincushion of needles, to save her taking a rest between daylight and dark."

"Ah, my friend, I see that human nature was the same in your day as now."

"Oh, no! Right-down honesty was of good deal more account. Children were instructed in honesty. Once when I was a little boy I picked up a piece of chalk off a carpenter's bench, and carried it home, thinking to please my mammy. 'Go straight back and put that piece of chalk where you found it,' she said. 'Never take a pin's worth that is not your own.' I carried that chalk all the way back, but the 'Never take a pin's worth' stayed by me. One old schoolma'am, when the children told lies, used to put red pepper on their tongues. It was kept up in a little cupboard that had a dimity curtain to it. Mostly some widow woman kept the school, right in her living-room, so the children had something to take up their minds, watching what was being cooked. Schooling was ninepence a week and carry a bit of firewood every day. It was after my mother grew up that girls were let go to the public schools. They went after the boys were dismissed, and stayed one hour, but there was great outcry that girls would be getting more learning than they needed."

Winter Hospitals in the South.

It is to be hoped that as this nation learns that it is one nation made from many states, the absurd distinctions made necessary till recently by state pride and prejudice may be done away. The state of Massachusetts maintains, at great charge, fifteen hospitals, asylums, and homes for the poor. In all of these there are hundreds of her wards, who are weak and sick here, for whom any physician would say—if they were rich—that a milder climate and the open air in winter are the requisites for health. Why should not the state remove two or three of its institutions to the highlands of Tennessee or to the dry pine groves of Florida? In the military service of the United States, where there are fewer geographical superstitions, each regiment takes its turn in those life-maintaining stations, "where men cannot die," and when the time comes it is replaced by a regiment which has been more exposed. The imagination runs riot when one thinks of what might come to two or three hundred pale and weakly "children of the State" if they are permitted to grow up in a country where the state would have to buy no coal for the furnace, and where the work of the inmates of the establishment might provide for their own food.—Lend a Hand for September.

This is what one woman said to another woman as to the use of any part of a lemon "left over":

"The next time you think you have done with a lemon, just dip it in salt and rub your copper kettle and stew pan with it. You will be surprised to find what a brilliant surface you will obtain if you rub the article instantly with a dry, soft cloth. You can polish all brass work by the same means, every stain disappearing as if by magic. A mouldy lemon put into a dirty saucpan half-full of water, and boiled for half an hour cleanses the utensil amazingly and removes any odor such as fish or onions. Try it and see if I am not right."

An Andover lady sends us the following; we hope she does not refer to anybody belonging to this town in the last sentence:

"Much praise is given to early rising. But there is no abstract excellence in early rising. It all depends upon what you do after you get up. It would be better for the world if some people never got up."

Dr. Holland, the genial author and poet, described card-playing as "the resort of the starved in soul and intellect, which has never in any way linked to itself tender, elevating, or beautiful associations."

BOOKS AND READING.

The September number of the New England Magazine is a Pilgrim number, nearly every article relating in some way to our forefathers and their life, in England, in Holland, or in the town of their pilgrimage on our "stern and rock-bound coast." The titles of the articles and the names of their authors will show the variety and value of this memorial number: A Plymouth Pilgrimage, by Mrs. Abby Morton Diaz; The Finding of the First Mayflower, by Arthur Hale; In Plymouth Woods, by Marston Watson; The Pilgrims' Life in Common, by Edward E. Hale; Round about Scrooby; Did John Hampden come to New England? by Edwin D. Mead; The Pilgrims in Leyden, by Rev. Henry M. Dexter, D.D.; King James at Scrooby, by Edward E. Hale; The Haunted Bell, by Prof. James K. Hosmer; The Pilgrim Society and the Monument, by Thomas Bradford Drew; The News of the French Revolution in America, by Davis R. Dewey, Ph.D.; Mistress Marian's Light, by Gertrude Morton; The Author of Looking Backward, by Sylvester Baxter; In Paris at the Centennial of the Revolution, by William Clarke. The illustrations of Plymouth and of Pilgrim places in Scrooby and in Leyden are very fine, and add greatly to the interest of the number, which all who take a proper pride in our

New England ancestry will do well to procure and preserve. Dr. Hale makes a remarkable statement, which we think will be new to most, that "these very men [the Pilgrims] invented the system of public Registration of Deeds and Wills, which is perhaps the strongest protection of Real Property now known. From the simple practice of their little state, it has been borrowed in all the Registries of the English-speaking world." [New England Magazine Co., 36 Bromfield St., Boston; $3 a year, 25 cts. a number.]

Lippincott for October is on hand in good time. The "long story" has a promising title, Creole and Puritan. The Correspondence of John Motley is a pleasant sketch of the literary life of the great historian. Junius Henri Browne writes on The Trials of Magazine Editors. Anna H. Wharton argues for the golden rod as the "national flower." Added to the usual Book Notes and Current Notes are a few pages "With the Wits."

CHILDREN'S CIRCLE.

An Andover Boy's Vacation.

Among the Vacation Letters printed in "Our Young Folks" department of the New York Tribune is one the signature to which has a very familiar sound, although Andover is not mentioned:

Dear Young Folks: Grandma says when she was young they had no vacations, but I am glad they do now, and I am going to tell you about mine. I have been trying for a long time to get as many engine names and numbers as possible, and I have got 163, and when I go anywhere I look for new ones. When we went to the mountains in July I got a good many new names. We had a lot of fun when the train stopped to load wood. It took them a long time, and my little brother and I got out and took a ride in a swing that was near. One woman got out with her dog and he started away; she called him, and then the train began to move on. She told the brakeman to stop the train while she ran after the dog. All the passengers that wasn't mad were laughing, and mother said the dog was a good deal more bother than our baby, but the train was stopped and she got on again, dog and all. One man said it cost 50 cents every time the train was stopped, but I guess the woman didn't care about that. When the conductor shouted out "Warren!" my little brother, who had a playmate by that name, spoke up so loud that everybody heard him, "Warren, Warren, where is he? Oh, yes, I see him, with blue breeches and a white hat," and the boy with the blue breeches and a white hat wondered, I suppose, what everybody was laughing at. We boarded with a Mrs. Lion, but we always called her Mrs. Tiger. One day we went rowing on a pond and got some pond lilies. In the early part of the summer we visited Bunker Hill Monument and the Navy Yard. We saw the ropewalk there. It is nearly a mile long. Little threads go through little holes, and are twisted together. We saw the tar-room, too, and we went on board a ship called the Wabash and saw some big guns. President Harrison went through here on the train. The engine was all trimmed up with flowers, and its name was Tippecanoe, which my grandpa, who voted for Grandpa Harrison, says was an appropriate name. Of course, I have done lots of other things, but guess I won't write any more, so good-by.

Vespers and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament on Sundays, 3.30 P.M.; on holydays, 8 P.M. The sacrament of baptism is administered on Sundays from 4 to 5 P.M., and at other times by special appointment.

UNION CHURCH, Ballardvale.—Organized 1854. Rev. G. S. Butler, pastor. Morning service, 10.30; evening, 6; Christian Endeavor, 5.15. Supt. of Sunday school, C. H. Marland.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Ballardvale.—Organized 1850. Rev. Edward E. Small, pastor. Morning service, 10; evening, 7. Young People's meeting, 6.15; Tuesday and Friday evenings, 7.30; Supt. of Sunday School, John Howell.

The South church preacher was Rev. Mr. Kingsbury of Bradford. "Who is my neighbor," was the main subject of his sermon, the ideas being brought out that men always know the practical duties better than they are apt to acknowledge or perform, and that the doing of Christian duties, which we know devolve upon us, is costly; but the symbol of life is love. In the evening Rev. Mr. Blair preached from the text 2 Cor. 4:5.

Rev. Frederic Palmer preached Sunday morning at Christ church from 2 Tim. 2:3, on the unwillingness to endure hardness as the source of many of the evils of our social condition, such as the frequent embezzlements, the use of narcotics, suicide. The remedy for this is in a greater reverence for duty, a greater dread of evil than of pain. Learning to make friends with hardness is the object of all education.

At the Baptist church, Rev. Mr. Stratton's text was Jonah 1: 5 in the morning and the evening address was on The Salvation that Saves.

The Free church pulpit was occupied by Rev. Geo. H. Gutterson of India. His morning text was, Gal. 6: 4, "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." At the evening meeting he related experiences among the people in India, where he has been a missionary.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Greene's morning discourse at the West church was, "Complete in Christ."—Col. 2:9, 10. In the evening he lectured in the vestry upon First Corinthians.

Prof. Harris was in the Chapel pulpit, and preached in the morning from the text Heb. 6:5.

The Union Temperance meeting at the Baptist church last Sunday afternoon, the first since the summer vacation, was fairly well attended and was extremely interesting. Rev. L. H. Sheel had charge and made appropriate remarks upon the temperance question. Rev. H. R. Wilbur, Rev. Worcester Willey, Prof. M. S. McCurdy and George Piddington also spoke. A quartette from Phillips' Academy furnished singing, which was a very pleasant addition to the meeting.

Rev. Charles W. Luck of Topsfield, Mass., declines the call of the Congregational church of Rochester, N. H.

At the dedication, Sept. 15, of the church edifice at Bar Harbor, the dedicatory prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Torrey, D. D., who, with Morris K. Jessup, Esq., of New York, Rev. F. H. Johnson, and Prof. George Harris, took part in the exercises. The building is a beautiful pink granite, and has been occupied since June. There is no encumbrance upon it, as the money for the remaining debt was secured by mortgaging other church property.

The game of foot-ball at Phillips Academy is being played this afternoon with the Cambridge High School.

Ingalls & Kendrick of Boston are fitting the new Bank building for steam heat. The Damon Safe Co. also have men here at work putting in the iron vault.

Mrs. Martha P. Goff and family will occupy the house recently vacated by H. P. Wright on High Street.

The Vermont correspondent of the Congregationalist says:

"Mr. Otis Chickering of Andover Seminary has rendered efficient aid to the Sudbury church during the summer. Besides preaching, he has also played the organ and conducted the singing."

Abbott Village.

The rain storm before the time for the commencement of the game last Saturday deterred the Merrimacks from coming over. Bruce and Kydd's team, however, played a scrub game, Kidd's team batting first, but being dismissed for 28 runs, of which number Christie had 11. Bruce's side, however, did not fare as well, only securing 17 runs. A pleasant game resulted in a win for Kydd's team by 11 runs.

A special meeting of the A. C. C. was held in the basement of the new Hall, Monday evening at 7.45. In the absence of President Warden, Mr. Low took the chair. It was unanimously agreed that the President receive the cup, and be custodian for the next year. It was also voted that the Club be held responsible for the safe custody of the cup, and make good all damages. The question of holding the presentation in Andover was also discussed, and it was agreed without a division that it should be held here on Saturday evening, Oct. 5th, the presentation to take place at 6.30 p. m.

The Company's house on Essex St., near the depot, is undergoing repairs, part of it having been resingled.
